

Kohei Hasegawa is a consultant in Deloitte Touche Tohmatsu LLC at Japan. He completed his Ph.D at Tokyo Metropolitan University in 2020. His current work is concentrated on management plans of waterworks and development of tools for water distribution systems design. He also has experience some committee member of projects organized by the Japan Water Research Center and Smart Water Promotion Association. He has been recognized with multiple paper and essay awards in both academic and practical domain.

(78words, 507 characters)